ABSTRACT

This report presents the results of the annual survey of geographic origins of permanent residence of all first-time credit course students attending the State University of New York during the 1971 fall term. Part one presents summary tables of first-time students by institution and permanent residence. Part two indicates the permanent residence of first-time students at each of the university centers, university colleges, health sciences centers, specialized colleges, statutory colleges, agricultural and technical colleges and community colleges. Part three indicates the institution of first-time students by permanent residence in New York state counties, the rest of the United States, and foreign countries. Part four, the appendix, includes percentage distribution, a glossary, and a publication list. (MJM)

INTRODUCTION

This report presents the results of the annual survey of geographic origins or permanent residence of all first-time credit course students attending the institution of the State University of New York during the 1971 fall term. It is the companion report to Geographic Origins of Students, Fall 1971 which provides permanent residence data for all credit course students in the Fall of 1971. These reports have been published for four years now, and comprise a significant data resource for studies of the residence and migration of college and university students. The state-wide nature of the student bodies of State University institutions has led to a deep interest in these data for enrollment projecting, for policy planning, and for other administrative purposes.

Although most studies of the geographic origins of college youth suffer the problem of a valid definition of "residence," first-time student studies are probably quite free of the customary variables affecting definitional inconsistency. First-time students have never been to a college previous to the term they are reported. Most first-time students are minors under 21 years of age, single, living at home when applying, and then attending full-time -- factors likely to change as the students grow older, marry and participate concurrently in non-student occupations which may affect their domicile. The use of first-time students as a measure of the drawing power of an institution is less subject to the confusion between "permanent" and "student" addresses, and can also be more closely related to the high school graduates of the preceding year in each county.

A general picture of this relationship is provided by Table 143 in the appendix of this report. However, because the data for the percent entering postsecondary education is collected on an estimate basis in the spring before the actual graduation and three to four months prior to college entrance it should be used with caution. While many high school students have firm plans by May of their graduation year, many others do not and the limitations of this estimated data should be recognized.

This year fourteen new tables have been added in order to provide basic data on the permanent residence of University students in relation to the four coordinating areas. These areas are a policy and planning framework through which the University hopes to better meet the educational needs of the citizens of any given area of the state while at the same time maximizing the efficient use of the existing academic resources in a given area. To aid this process we have included tables which list the State University institutions in each area and show the permanent residence distribution of the first-time students by area as a percent of total enrollment.

No study of this magnitude could have been conducted or completed without the extensive cooperation of campus personnel and of those in the Central Staff Office of Institutional Research. Those who will use this document will be grateful for that effort. We would give serious consideration to any recommendations for future studies or reports of this type.
